FOR CLINIC OWNERS AND PRACTICE MANAGERS

Marketing for clinics: what working together includes

Websites, patient content, local search, ads and reviews for medical practices, written and built by one person, with the handoffs your intake and billing teams need.

What's included

Website
Pages built around the questions patients ask before they call: care, comfort, costs and the next step. Accessible to WCAG 2.1 AA, fast on a phone, and yours.

Articles & guides
Plain-English patient content with cited sources, reviewed by your clinicians before it goes live.

Local search & reviews
Google Business Profile set up and kept current, and a review request that goes to every patient, with replies that never confirm who is a patient.

Ads
Google search and Facebook/Instagram campaigns that follow health-ad policies: no condition targeting, no implied diagnoses, no outcome promises.

Social
Useful posts, each leading to a page that answers the question it raises.

Handoffs
Inquiries arrive with a route, an owner and a next action, so intake, scheduling and billing aren't starting from scratch.

How we'd work

1. Listen and audit. Your current site, profiles and ads, how inquiries reach intake today, and what your team wishes patients knew before they call.
2. Brief and plan. A written brief: audiences, voice, the questions to answer, the rules that apply and how we'll measure progress.
3. Write and build. Pages, articles and profiles, reviewed by you and your clinicians before anything is published.
4. Launch and check. Accessibility and speed checks, a tracking review, and a test of every route into intake.
5. Report and improve. A monthly report in plain English, and one or two changes worth making next.

What you own

You're the owner of everything below. I work with user access you can remove at any time.

- Your domain and website (code, words and images)
- Your Google Business Profile
- Your ad accounts and their billing
- Your analytics and Search Console properties
- Your social profiles

What I won't do

- Guarantee rankings, patient numbers or revenue
- Write or buy reviews or testimonials
- Promise clinical outcomes or use before-and-after claims
- Target ads by health condition
- Hold your accounts hostage: access is yours to remove

Privacy and tracking

- No advertising pixels or third-party tracking on service, booking, portal or other patient-facing pages.
- Forms that collect health information run on HIPAA-capable tools under a business associate agreement (BAA). The marketing work itself doesn't need access to patient records.
- Analytics are counted in aggregate: no names, conditions or visit reasons in URLs, events or reports.
- Ad audiences use location and age, never health conditions, and never lists built from patients or site visitors.
- Review requests go to every patient, with no gating and no incentives, following the FTC's rules.

> This is a working standard, not legal advice. Each clinic confirms its own HIPAA, Texas and payer obligations with its counsel. The healthcare case studies show these rules applied to six concepts.

Next step

Book a 30-minute call (cal.com/ahsan-khan-8er8sd/30min), or email ahsankhan.direct@gmail.com. Or start with a free visibility check. Bring one question you wish patients asked before they call.

Sample monthly report

ILLUSTRATIVE NUMBERS · NOT A REAL CLINIC

> Every figure on this page is made up to show what a monthly report covers and how it reads. None comes from a real practice, and none is a promised result.

MEASURE	THIS MONTH	LAST MONTH	WHERE IT COMES FROM
Website inquiries	38	31	From the inquiry form and planner, counted by route, never by condition.
Calls from Google Business Profile	64	58	Call button taps reported by Google.
First visits booked from new inquiries	22	17	Aggregate count shared by your intake team.
Cost per inquiry (search ads)	$41	$47	Ad spend divided by inquiries from ads.
New Google reviews (average rating)	9 (4.7)	6 (4.6)	Every patient asked the same way.
Map results: top three for tracked searches	4 of 6	3 of 6	Six local searches, checked from one location.
Accessibility issues found (axe)	0	0	Automated scan of the main pages.

What changed

- The new “first visit” guide became the most-visited page after the homepage, and planner starts rose with it.
- Two search ads were paused for a low click-through rate; their budget moved to the guide campaign.

What I’d do next

- Add the costs question to the Google Business Profile Q&A, where it is asked most.
- Ask intake which question new patients still call about, and answer it on the service page.

Reports never include patient names, conditions or visit reasons. Clinical and billing outcomes stay with your teams.
